

Three votes for faith-based schools

National Post

Published: Thursday, September 20, 2007

Ontario claims to be proud of its multicultural identity, yet discriminates against Jewish, Muslim, Christian, Hindu and other religious groups when it comes to education. Five other provinces have provided full or partial funding of faith-based schools for years. Ontario, however, was found guilty of discriminating against religious schools by the United Nations in 1999.

I am a product of a faith-based school from this province and now my children attend a Christian school here in Northumberland County. I am proud to be Canadian and thankful to live in a country that allows us the religious freedom to send our children to a Christian school. It is time Ontario stopped discriminating against faith-based schools and supported all of the students in this great province.

Freda Kennedy, Castleton, Ont.